Cambridge, April 16.

HER Majesty having been graciously pleased to declare Her Intentions of visiting the University of Cambridge, and having appointed this day for that purpose, She was received a Mile out of Town by the Mayor, Aldermen, Common-Council, and the rest of the Corporation, in their Formalities, with the Rt. Hon. the Earl of Orford their High Steward, and Sir John Cotton Bar. their Recorder, at their head. The Mayor delivered the Mace to Her Majesty, who was pleased to return it to him again: He and the rest of the Corporation had the Honour of kissing Her Hand; and the Recorder, in the Name of the Body, made Her Majesty a most dutiful Speech, and presented Her with a Purse of Gold. Her Majesty proceeded towards this Place amidst the Acclamations of an infinite Number of People, who made a Lane to the end of the Town, which was continued from thence to the Schools by the Scholars, who were ranged along the Streets in their Habits; and received her likewise with Acclamations of Vivat Regina. The Ways were all along strowed with Flowers; the Bells rung; and the Conduits run with Wine. In the Regent Walk which leads to the Schools, Her Majesty was received by his Grace the Duke of Somerset, Chancellor of the University, in his Habit, at the head of the Doctors. His Grace made a Speech to Her Majesty, wherein he expressed the deep Sense the University had of the great Honour Her Majesty was pleased to do them, by Her Royal Presence, and of the gracious Assurances She had given them of Her Favour and Protection; that they were obliged to congratulate their own Happiness, together with that of Her Arrival there; and assured Her Majesty of the most grateful and dutiful Returns of Loyalty to Her Person, and Affection to Her Government, that could possibly be expected from a Society that had for many Years enjoyed the Hereditary Favours of Her Royal Ancestors, and still hoped for the Confirmation and Encrease of them by Her Majesty's long and happy Reign over them: To which Her Majesty was pleased to return this Answer:

I Am very sensible of the Duty and Affection of the University, and of their constant Loyalty to the Crown; They may always depend upon equal Protection and Encouragements from Me, as from any of My Predecessors.

As Her Majesty advanced towards the Schools, Mr. Ayloffe, the Publick Orator, made Her a Speech, full of Loyalty and Obedience, in the Name of the University; which being ended, Her Majesty went up into the Regent House, where, as is usual upon so great and extraordinary a Solemnity, Degrees in the several Faculties were, by Her Majesty's especial Grace, conferred upon Persons of high Nobility and distinguishing Merit. Dr. James, the Queen's Professor in Divinity, opened that Ceremony with a very Learned and Eloquent Speech; after which Mr. Moss, Chaplain in waiting to Her Majesty, and Mr. Talbot, Chaplain to his Grace the Duke of Somerset, were created Doctors in Divinity; and immediately after, according to the Orders of Professions, the Noble Persons following were admitted Doctors in Law.

Duke of Devonshire.	Lord Byron.
Duke of Grafton.	Lord Halifax.
Duke of Bolton.	Lord Harvey.
Marquess of Hartington.	Lord Allington.
Earl of Kent.	Lord Sherard.
Earl of Kingston.
Earl of Sunderland.	Sir Thomas Hanmer.
Earl of Orford.	Sir John Jacob.
Earl of Albermarle.	Sir John Tyrwhit.
Lord Wharton.	William Feilding Esq;
Lord Lovelace.	John Noell Esq;

From the Schools Her Majesty went to Trinity College, the Master whereof, Dr. Bentley, received Her Majesty likewise with a very dutiful Speech; and Her Majesty was pleased to confer the Honour of Knighthood upon John Ellis Esq; Doctor in Physick, and Vice-Chancellor of the University, James Mountague Esq; Council for the University, and Isaac Newton Esq; formerly Mathematick Professor, and Fellow of that College: Then about 300 Ladies and Gentlewomen were admitted to kiss Her Majesty's Hand. Her Majesty was afterwards entertained at Dinner in Trinity College Hall, at the Expence of the University, upon a Throne erected five Foot high for that purpose; and 4 large Tables, with 50 Covers each, were prepared for the Nobility and Gentry: All which was performed with the greatest Order and Magnificence. After Dinner Her Majesty visited Trinity College Library; from whence she went to St. John's, where She was likewise received with a Speech by Dr. Gower, Master of the College, and Margaret Professor of Divinity. Her Majesty went from thence to Prayers in King's College Chapel, at the Entrance whereof Dr. Roderick, the Provost, addressed himself to Her Majesty with very dutiful and loyal Expressions. After Prayers Her Majesty went to Queen's College, where She was received by Dr. James, in the same manner, and with the same Expressions of Duty and Loyalty, as She had been in the other Houses which she had been pleased to Honour with Her Presence: From thence Her Majesty took Coach, and returned the same evening to Newmarket, very well satisfied with all the Marks of Obedience and Loyalty which She had met with.

Newmarket, April 21. The following Address has been presented to Her Majesty, which She was pleased to receive very graciously.

To the QUEEN's most Excellent Majesty:

The humble Address of the Inferior Clergy in the Neighbourhood of Newmarket.

Great MADAM,

THE late glorious Success of Your Majesty's Fleets and Armies, in Conjunction with those of Your Majesty's Allies, and the memorable Trophies of the last Campaign, have deservedly charm'd the Nation into pleasing and unanimous Addresses of Triumph and Congratulation.

We therefore, Your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Inferior Clergy, Vicars and Curates, in the Neighbourhood of Newmarket, do, in behalf of our selves and the rest of our Brethren, humbly embrace this Opportunity of expressing our publick Joy for Your Majesty's gracing us with Your Royal Presence; and for those numerous Blessings bestowed upon us since Your Majesty's happy Accession to the Imperial Crowns of these Kingdoms.

But we more especially think our selves obliged to return our unfeigned Thanks to God and Your Sacred Majesty, for Your Majesty's late gracious and unparallel'd Bounty to us the poorer Clergy; which (far beyond a Papal Donation) entitles Your Majesty Defender of the Faith; and, in the best and fullest Sense, declares the Queen a Nursing Mother of the Church.

May therefore Your Laurels, Madam, for ever flourish, and Your Arms be Shining and Victorious as Your Piety: May You command the Hearts of all Your People, and the Heads of all Your Enemies: May You continue the Scourge of an Exorbitant Power, the Pride and Glory of Your Subjects, and a lasting Blessing to our Isle; And, after a long and prosperous Reign upon Earth, may You be late removed to the Possession of a Peaceful, Glorious and Eternal Kingdom.

Plimouth, April 17. Her Majesty's Ship the Triton, Capt. Taylor Commander, has brought in here two Privateers of St. Malo, which he took two days ago about 15 Leagues to the Southward of the Lizard; one is called the Sanspareil, of 20 Guns and 135 Men; the other the Beringhen, of 24 Guns and 160 Men: They are both new Ships, and esteemed as good Sailers as any that belonged to St. Malo: They had been out about two Months without taking any Prize, except a small Vessel belonging to West-Chester, and homeward bound from Oporto, which they had ransomed; but the Hostages were on board them, and are come ashore here.

St. James's, April 21. This day came in Letters from Sir John Leake, dated in the Bay of Gibraltar the 31st of March, O. S. that give the following Account.

On the 6th of that Month he sailed from Lisbon with the Confederate Squadron under his Command: The 9th at noon he got in sight of Cape Spartel; but not having day enough to reach Gibraltar, he lay by to prevent being discovered from the Spanish Shore, to the end he might surprise the Enemy in the Bay early the next morning. The Weather continued fair till after midnight; then the Wind shifted from the West N. W. to the S. W. with much Rain and thick Weather, which hindered his ma-
